

Independent Stylists Global Market Brief

Base Year: 2021

Forecast: 2026

To Be Published:
2nd Quarter 2022

2nd edition

Independent hairdressers comprise an increasingly important target group for hair care companies, yet little information is available on this segment.

At the beginning of 2020, for the first time, Kline surveyed more than 1,200 independent stylists globally, to understand their behavior and attitudes. This second edition provides an update on the markets previously covered and brand-new insights on markets covered for the first time.

SCOPE

This report compiles a quantitative survey among independent hairdressers and opinions from unstructured interviews with industry experts across Europe, North America, and Brazil. Observing the increasing number of hairdressers working independently with a decreasing number of salons as a result of 2020-2021 pandemic situation, this group is more-than-ever important to target. It is essential to understand from where they purchase products, which brands they purchase and why, and what motivates them to select brands and sell products.

The report includes information on:

- › Number of independent stylists
- › Their monthly revenues
- › Where they do styling
- › Their clients' profile
- › Services they provide
- › Product retailing and spending on salon hair care products
- › Their product purchase channels
- › Brands they use
- › Impact of pandemic on their work
- › Market development through 2026

Results from this study should enable companies to create partnerships and agreements with independent hairstylists based on their profile and needs.
